THE CITY SCHOOLS.

The members of the city council and the city engineer visited the schools recently, went through all the rooms, and were served with a nice luncheon prepared by Miss Robbie Nicol and her domestic science girls. Those present were Messrs. Tyler

Haswell, John Vick, W. S. Wilson, J. S. Doane, Dr. B. U. Sims and A. S. Adams.

The girls who prepared the luncheon for the city council and waited on the visitors were as follows: Belle Gainer, Mildred Newton, Bella Locke, Mattie Mike, Juliette Castles, Margaret Carson, Vivienne Howell, Una Buchanan, Minnie Wolton and Myrtle McCullough.

The elegant place cards used at the table were the work of Myrtle McCullough, whose attainments in that line are remarkable. In that line of work she is one of the best and any school would feel proud of her.

As time goes on it becomes more and more apparent that the selection of Murry A. Miller, M. A., for the important position he fills was a good thing for the schools. Not only is his work good, but what is more, the order is good. The superintendent is glad to have such a valuable man in the schools.

Girls in the trigonometry class made grades as follows in the December examination: Olive Cloud, 96; Irene Furman, 95; Ethel Hall, 98; Rosie Hart, 96; Alma Holden, 82; Kathleen Sims, 91; Bess Spence, 98; Audrey Wagner, 71. As will be seen, all the girls made passing grades, and Ethel Hall and Bess Spence were the leaders.

Examination grades on trigonometry for boys were as follows: Norman Cloud, 59; Mason Cooper, 61; Edwin Crenshaw, 62; Dan Demaret, 79; Ross Dunn, 60; Leslie Griffin, 60; Lester Griffin, 70; Dwight Hanna, 76; Roger McGee, 98; Sam Parker, 94; James Scardino, 65.

The next examination in trigonometry comes Monday, January 29, 1917.

Tenth grade boys made grades on algebra as follows: Sangster Blizell, 96; Frank Boriskie, 100; Homer Lawson, 77; Lon Locke, 92; Byron McKnight, 87; Clifford Mitchell, 84; Wendell Mitchell, 61; Roy Morehead, 90; Charley Myers, 90; Phocion Park, 98; Joe Patronelli, 29; Roger Powers, 24; Harold Sanders, 92; Horace Smith, 77; Jessie Smith, 83.

The official record from Baylor College shows that Lois Pipkin, class of 1915, Bryan High School, now a sophomore in Baylor and president of her class, made "A" on everything at the last examination in college. We are all proud of her.

In a recent editorial in the Journal of Education of Boston, Mass., Dr. Winship again refers in very complimentary terms to what is being done in the Bryan schools. For the schools of a little town like Bryan to have such commendation in one of the greatest school journals, means much. W. C. LAWSON, Supt.
